SEPTEMBER 2018

I have just returned from a whirlwind last-minute vacation to beautiful Branson, Missouri. Not a destination I necessarily would have chosen but one for which my long-time friend, sorority sister and fellow horseperson Laurel had a week's condo access. She had never been to the Ozarks and thought it might be fun to meet up for a few days and Do Branson, so to speak.

Turns out you can Do Branson in much less than a week, depending on your tolerance for uplifting pop/country mashup entertainment and all you can eat buffets. So by the time I arrived she was desperate for company and ready to find some adventures. Laurel is my most active friend and a former Air Force officer and her ideal vacations consist of things like skiing above the treeline and kayaking through jungles. My ideal vacations involve basking like a lizard in some tropical paradise with an ocean and a fruity rum drink near to hand.

It is good to have a friend stretch you in different directions though and so I dutifully went hiking the first day and spent the evening watching one of the shows on the strip. Afterwards we found an Irish pub and had a drink while she told me the plan for the next morning which could involve either a) a yoga class or b) blasting things with a shotgun at the local shooting academy. You can probably guess which one I would have chosen but Laurel can be very persuasive and so I found myself at ten the next morning not performing downward facing dog but instead rather tentatively holding the only gun I have ever held in my life.

I shot the twelve gauge gun three times: first into the ground, second into who knows where, and third (miracle of miracles!) right dag nab center of the whirling plastic disk, blasting it into smithereens. I figured I should quit while I was ahead, and although shooting most likely will not become an enthusiasm of mine I felt accomplished and happy that I could still learn a new skill at my advanced age. Laurel, of course, was pinging plastic fake birds literally right and left, as they were releasing two and then three at a time for her; but hey, she's been doing it for a lot longer.

We spent the afternoon at the local outlet mall in what can only be described as a quintessential Missouri two-fer: shootin' and shoppin'. Later that evening we swooped along the twisty mountain roads singing to the soundtrack from the Rocky Horror Picture Show until we found our destination: the Cheeky Monkey, local watering hole and barbecue joint. We had some decent barbecue and some monkey-themed cocktails and rocked out to a middle-aged heavy metal cover band and the next day we both got back on the road and headed our separate ways to home and horses.

There is something to be said for stretching yourself, whether in your riding career or in your every day life. I arrived home Saturday evening after a grueling rain-soaked drive, renewed and ready to start working again with my horses after a few days off. Stretching our horses benefits them as well and with new respect for the change in outlook that can be worked by learning a new skill or doing something different, I skipped the brushing boots and lunging and took Rusty straight out to the trails this morning. The weather was pleasant, the bugs at a low drone, and it was the perfect day to ride. Rusty and I both enjoyed walking the fence perimeter and feeling the softness of the turf underfoot...although he carefully avoided puddles and soggy areas. Yes yes I know, we will have to work on those things in the future but that is a lesson for another day. Today was about fun, and appreciation for the world we live in and the life we have.

I guess if vacations are supposed to be about renewal and increased hope and positivity about the future, well then: mission accomplished Branson! Here's to shootin' and shoppin', or whatever turns out to be your renewal experience this summer.

Until next time-

Memories of Mozie.....

Below, Editor's best guess is this is a schooling one day horse trial at Heritage Park...but I could be wrong. Mackie Blair is again the pilot and both photographs were taken by Lora Blair.

Mozie's Dancer, submitted by Amy Stapleton

We lost Mozie on August 6, 2018. Mozie was owned by Lora Blair at Fox Run Farms and was evented by Mackie Blair. He was a huge (17.3 hand) Dark Bay Thoroughbred with a white star. He was one of the first Low Rent Ranchers. He lived with us for more than 10 years and touched almost all of the horses that have stayed with us. Mozie had a bad heart (which is why he retired), but it was made of gold. Many, many vet students got to hear his crazy heartbeat. And then they would get quizzed! So he taught them all. Mozie was one of the gentlest giants I have ever known. When he first arrived he was really not sure of the plan. He seemed like Oliver Twist. "This is not my beautiful house" he seemed to say. The first really cold night Lora had to run over in the dark and bring him his blanket. He loved his "binky" and would nicker at you and put his head down so you could put it on. That never ceased to crack me up. Once he figured out that he could pretty much go wherever he wanted any time he wanted, he embraced it wholeheartedly. He did this head bob thing and sang his "rap" song every time you came to feed. He would stick his head out of the window in his room and rap for his meals. It was hilarious. When he galloped in at feed time his hooves thundered louder than the others. Cash always won, but Mozie could shake the ground. Speaking of Cash, we lost him a few weeks before Mozie. They were the best of buddies. Cash and Mozie were the swim team. They would swim across the pond together like a synchronized dance. It was something to see. The both were dark bay with white stars. When I would go to the barn at night you could just see their stars peeking out of the barn. They became the Star Babies. Delilah has a star too so she joined the Star Baby Club. Mozie's big, broken, heart of gold watched over baby Fiona and her mom Splash when they were in the witness protection program at Low Rent Ranch (long story, bad divorce). When Delilah came home from her very long recoup from surgery, she was very depressed and I worried she was not going to recover mentally. Until I watched Mozie hug her. He literally wrapped his body and that big old head around her and pulled her close. The light in her eyes came back and she was healed. It was beautiful and still brings tears to my eyes. I truly believe Mozie saved her life. Thanks Mozie. He always let the tiny donkey walk underneath him which was a sight to see. And he was a great friend to good old Pete. Grazing beside him in the sun and napping together in the barn. Mozie taught Heartbreak how to chill. She was a bit stressed out when she came to live with us. She had stayed with us before when her baby was weaning, so the gang all knew her. But this time she was pretty stressed out. Good old Mozie sidled right up to her and blew a horse kiss on her nose. He let her eat beside him in his "room" in the barn. She would startle at the slightest sound and run out of the barn if a deer walked through the woods acres away. Good old Mozie just ignored her and made that cooing sound horses do. She is a different horse today and much of that is because that big old, broken-hearted horse just kept still and calm through all her antics. After Mozie was put down Heartbreak stood guard over his body. After she said good-bye she went in and touched nosed with Delilah and Pete. I think she told them it was okay and that he was gone. That image will forever be in my mind's eye. They grieve and they let go. Pretty chill way to handle life, don't you think? Good bye Mozie. Your big old, broken, golden heart will never be forgotten. Long May They Run.

EDITOR'S NOTE:

My bad! Yours truly forgot to include the minutes from the July meeting in the August newsletter. They are included in this newsletter on the page following this one.

CDCTA Meeting Minutes: August 20, 2018

Meeting called to order at 7:46 p.m.

In attendance: Leah Strid, Mary Frances Carrington, Kelsey Fisher, Tesa Sterchi, Judy Owens, Cynthia Smith, Amy Stapleton, Karen Atwill, Beth Hussey, Kim Kriekhaus, Bill Wise and Rosy Erganian

Approval of Minutes: Beth made the motion to approve the July meeting minutes, Tesa seconded the motion and all were in favor.

Treasurer's Report: The account balance is $5869.80. The $91.00 difference discussed last month was clarified as paying for the Spring Show CT classes.

Committee Reports:

Membership: The CDCTA is currently at 33 members.

Communications: Charles dropped off the Weebly info. This account renews every 3-4 years and control will be transferred to Amy to make payments easier. The showbill and entry form are posted online, but a new one will be posted to correct the CT Dressage class listed.

Special Events: Rosy will schedule a meeting with an associate at Stephens College to discuss possible plans for the 30th anniversary celebration. The Fall Show is coming up and volunteers are still needed. Rosy will be the course designer this year. Tesa made a motion to pay Rosy $150 for taking on the task of course designer, Cynthia seconded the motion and it passed. Beth will order the High Score ribbons for the show.

Education: The grant was received for the Centered Riding Clinic. Thank you to Mary Frances and Leah for submitting! The price for the Clinic, on October 13-14, has been dropped to $125.00. It will be held at Just Cruising, formerly Fox Run.

Old Business: A photo from Leah was sent in for the USDF GMO photo awards, articles written by Kelsey and Karin were submitted for awards and Liz Hotchkiss was nominated for Region IV volunteer of the year.

Next meeting will be held at Angelo's on September 24 at 7:30 p.m.

Motion to adjourn meeting by Beth and seconded by Tesa at 8:24 p.m.

Thanks again to Beth for hosting the meeting!

CDCTA Meeting Minutes: July 16, 2018

Meeting called to order at 7:38 p.m.

In attendance: Karin Loftin, Beth Hussey, Mary Frances Carrington, Leah Strid and Candace Kassel

Approval of Minutes: Beth made the motion to approve the June meeting minutes, Karin seconded the motion and all were in favor.

Treasurer's Report: The account balance is $5,869.08. The report was electronically submitted by Amy. We need to clarify the totals from last month to this, 5,981.02 in June to 5,869.08 in July.

Committee Reports:

Membership: The CDCTA is at around 32 members.

Communications: The website issue was with Weebly and was a company/sitewide issue. It is currently fixed, but ownership needs to be transferred so that we have all the rights to make any changes needed. The domain will expire this year and ownership can be transferred at that time. We can discuss the renewal, 1 year or 4 years, at the next meeting in August.

Special Events: Rosy and Beth are setting up a meeting with Stephens College to further discuss the use of their facilities for our 30th year celebration. Another option for the timing of our celebration was around the Boone County Stable Tour. The Stable Tour was asked to include an opportunity for participants to ride, so it may be possible for us to get involved with that by providing the riding option.

Competitions: There has been an interest shown for Western Dressage in the Fall Show at Sunny Oak Farm. This class should be offered, but we will have that confirmed by Rosy. Kim Kriekhaus will be the secretary for the Fall CDCTA Show. New venues are being looked at for possible show(s) in 2019. Barns talked about were the Mid-Mo Riding Center, Stony Hill Farm, Vintage Hill and hopefully someday the Boone County Fairgrounds will again be open for horse events.

Education: The application has been sent for the Centered Riding Clinic by Mary Frances and Leah. We should hear about that soon. Just Cruising Equestrian Center and JoJo Kyger will be added as the new name and owner of Fox Run for the Carol Wilson Clinic on October 13-14.

Old Business: Beth will nominate Liz Hotchkiss for the Volunteer of the Year Award for USDF Region 4 and Leah will send in an entry for the best photo.

New Business: N/A

Motion to adjourn meeting by Beth and seconded by Mary Frances at 8:20 p.m.
